Plugins that typically deliver a soft, blobby look are often lacking sharpening and anti-aliasing techniques, or are using non-analytical methods. The distortions you can apply on images with this plug-in are quite different in these respects. The first 4 derivatives are applied to the original image. The texture is generated by interpolation. The higher the derivatives, the more pronounced the texture looks. You can adjust the settings of your images with these control buttons: You can choose between three different types of distortions: Graphic image with a distortion Reduce image with a distortion Increase image with a distortion It also generates square images if you want to create a graphic image: You can increase or decrease the distortion through two buttons: Level & Design: This tool may not be used to alter your image. If you look closely, you will see that the original image, the distorted image and a blurred version of the distorted image are displayed. This is meant to quickly create versions of a distorted image. What you can do: Apply a random distortion Increase or decrease the distortion level Change the radius of the distortion Change the color If you want to reduce an image, just use the right control to increase or decrease the distortion level. Change the color with the color buttons. To create graphics, just use the "make graphic image" button. You can also use this method to apply a gradient which will start from 0 at the center and go up to 100% at the sides.
